

Mozzie mayhem

This Mosquito-Click zapper is a chemical-free solution for mozzie and sandfly bites that delivers a painless electric shock to the skin. Our verdict? It made the itch less intense but didn't make it go away. Available at Kmart for $19.95.

the ABCDE of moles?

Turn me on

Main picture: A maestro in your pocket

Gramophone, POA, from Churchill Antiques, North Fremantle. Clockwise from top: iPod Nano 8GB, $279; Sony MP3 digital music player 1GB, $199; iPod Classic 80GB, $349; Sony MP3 media player 8GB, $299; Sony MP3 player with white case 2GB, $119, all from Myer, Perth.

1. Here's a new gadget that will impress in the great outdoors. The Mosquito-Click, $19.95, stockists: (03) 9690 4944, is made in Italy and uses a sort of painless mini electric shock to stop the itching of mosquito, bull ant, sandfly and jellyfish stings. A few more clicks can reduce swelling.

ON nights when the mosquito net or the Aerogard lets you down, avoid unsightly scratching with Mosquito-Click ($19.95), which uses a small electrical current to stop mozzie bites from itching or swelling. Also recommended after encounters with sandflies, midges and jellyfish, but not if you've got a pacemaker. More: www.mosquitoclick.com.

On a bite, apply calamine lotion or try Mosquito Click, $19.95, for an electric current to stop itching and swelling. www.mosquitoclick.com

What's interesting?

>> Mosquito-Click

Don't spend your summer evenings scratching the night away. Try the Mosquito-Click. It's a chemical-free way to treat insect bites. Simply hold the narrow end on the bite and click to relieve itching and swelling. Priced at $19.95, from Kmart, Ray's Outdoors, Mitchells Disposals, chemists and other outdoor and camping stores. Visit www.mosquitoclick.com

web watch

A fantastic flight comparisons search tool, an anti-itch mosquito device and a site that rails against inflated mini-bar prices — Scott Podmore does his final Web Watch round-up for the year

SITE OF THE MONTH

www.travel.com.au

SINCE being one of the first to pioneer travel in cyberspace more than 10 years ago, Travel.com.au has relaunched with a fresh new look. Visitors to the revitalised site will find it a breeze to navigate — but also can expect to save big bucks as it offers some of the lowest rates on the internet, giving up to 5 per cent on international airfares all year round. Chris Meehan, chief operating officer of travel.com.au, believes the website remains unchanged for its role as a one-stop-shop for travellers, offering everything from flights, holidays, car hire, travel insurance and “the expertise to match our legacy”.

WHAT'S NEW

www.mosquitoclick.com

CAMPING season has arrived and that means the mossies have fired up, especially along the riverbanks. This innovation doesn't keep those buzzing pests away, but certainly takes the annoying itchiness away. The site explains how Mosquito-Click eliminates itchiness and inflammation from mosquito, sandfly, midge bites and minor jellyfish stings in a few clicks. It runs with piezoelectricity (“the generation of electric currents by the compression or expansion of quartz and similar crystalline substances”). No batteries are needed and it can be used on children older than 12 months.

Mosquito-Click: Taking the sting out the mozzies.

ONLINE HELPER

www.iwantthatflight.com.au

THIS could be the best web tool to search and compare flights — and it doesn't cost a cent. A free service that is supported only by advertising, iwantthatflight.com.au compares Qantas, Virgin Blue, Rex and Jetstar flights quickly. Once you've chosen the flight you want, the site transports you to the airline's homepage to make a booking.

Simple, fuss-free and a travel tool worth bookmarking.

FAIR GO, BUDDHA

www.youtube.com/watch?v=jk-ytGqPabU

CATCH Chris “Buddha” Handy, a voice of rugby union and well-loved Wallaby, as he kicks up a fuss over exorbitant mini-bar prices from his World Cup

Mossie relief is simply a click away

SUMMER time is perfect for dining outdoors and we all love alfresco eating. Unfortunately so do mosquitoes.

We can't help with the burnt chops or an empty gas cylinder but Mosquito-Click is set to change the way we treat mosquito bites in Australia.

It is a chemical-free way to stop the itchiness and inflammation of mosquito, sandfly, bull ant — and even jellyfish stings.

Finally some relief is here.

Mosquito-Click is small enough to carry to cafes, restaurants, on the patio or to a barbecue. It's this summer's must-have accessory.

The Mosquito-Click is made in Italy and clinically trialed. It works using a sort of mini electric shock (but it doesn't hurt!). You just hold the device like a pen, point the narrow end on the bite and click to stop the itching.

Another few clicks can stop the swelling as well.

Perfect for everyone, but especially for people who get an allergic reaction to mozzie bites and for children (from 6 months).

The Mosquito-Click is available from Kmart, My Chemist, Bay's Outdoor

MOSQUITO-Click is a chemical-free way to stop the itchiness and inflammation of mosquito, sandfly and bull ant.

Footmaster - Your Custom
Orthotics